

Joni Worthington

Vice President for Communications

919-962-4629

worthj@northcarolina.edu

As vice president, Ms. Worthington is responsible for media relations for the UNC president and UNC Board of Governors, editorial and communications support for the president, and oversight of selected University publications and special projects. She also provides communications advice and counsel to the senior leadership team at UNC General Administration and serves as a liaison between the President's Office and communications officers for all UNC campuses and affiliates and various state agencies.